

G. Mondini: Company Background

Thanks to its experience in the field G. Mondini has become a leading company, with more than 15.000 installations all over the world, more than 190 employees, and constant and continuous collaboration with major food industry enterprises.

From the most complex and complete line for the production and packaging of “food and no-food” to the single closing machine in different type of packaging technology, G. Mondini’s offers can withstand any comparison in terms of quality and reliability

It is a company which is constantly investing in people and their intelligence, in research and in quality, making plans and suggesting innovative and ever more reliable machines, able to offer the best solutions in terms of productivity, ease of use and cost-effective management.

All this does not come by chance but from the brilliant intuitions of the company’s founder, Giovanni Mondini, which he is from almost five decades of history is revolutionizing the world market for packaging through an amazing innovation, the employment of a rigid container, which helped with logistics, improved the quality of the product and lengthened its shelf life.

Founded in 1972, G. Mondini S.p.A. is a constantly–growing company, which nowadays can boast world leadership in the packaging technology.

The market potential is huge. However, not even a customer used to using big machines in order to produce daily quantities could ever imagine that from a small centre in the province of Brescia a company would be able to change the production of sealed containers all over the world.

Customers, partners, sales representatives, company employees can enjoy and share the work that we all do together for the common benefit, for the next project, for the next sale and to inspire each other to the next industry leading idea.

We at G. Mondini believe that ideas are the foundation of our business. The more we share ideas the more we generate so we can continuously bring innovation and new customized ideas to serve the individual needs of our customers.

Over the last 45 years we have been designing, building and successfully installing tray-sealing lines to many different customers all around the world.

Our experience covers a huge variety of tray shapes, products, outputs culminating in a phenomenal understanding and capability in choosing the best solution for each customer project. G. Mondini has assembled a highly competent and motivated team of people that represent our company values in each single project.

We are proud to say that together we have built an unequalled reputation as the world leader in tray sealing technology recognized by the leading food companies around the world who have chosen us as their preferred supplier.

Today G. Mondini market has no limits, as it distributes packaging machines and dosing machines on five continents.

Research and development have always characterised G. Mondini SpA and they explain its success. Its commitment to research moved forward on two different but complementary fronts: the development of existing technology and machinery to keep up with customer demands on the one hand, and on the other hand technological solutions to respond to new production demands, new packaging concepts and new types of products.

Over the last few years, even during the financial crisis, we intensified our efforts into innovation of tray sealing technology.

Our new TRAVE with the revolutionary PLATFORM TECHNOLOGY® concept is in our view the most advanced tray sealer in the world.

Designed with an unrivalled robustness and reliability, the TRAVE satisfies the most stringent food safety and hygiene requirements providing outstanding flexibility without any compromise in efficiency. Our vision is to develop such a variety of packaging formats with the TRAVE PLATFORM TECHNOLOGY® to eradicate the reason of a dedicated machine.

The new range of “TRAVE” tray sealers are designed to offer our customers maximum flexibility while maintaining unrivalled production speeds.

The ability to deliver multiple packaging technologies in Heat Seal, MAP, Vacuum skin, Double Decker, Skin Protruding, Mirabella, Stretch Seal, Map rigid lid, Blow Molded Jars and now the brand new Darfresh® on Tra, Slimfresh® and Zero® technology on our tray sealing machine is unique giving customers the ability to offer different types of packages to suit their customers.

Flexibility, due to a fast-changing consumer, becomes paramount.

Our Platform® Technology expresses the maximum flexibility achievable on a packaging machine.

Coupled this with our latest invention, the PLATFORMER®, we have delivered the most cost effective and most flexible packing system ever.

Sustainability is often mentioned as a key element, but we believe we need to make sure that industry can embrace it without incurring extra cost and even reducing costs in the process. Our PLATFORMER® delivers the lowest possible plastic consumption, delivering outstanding trays, with a clear cost benefit.

By making trays on demand at the customer the PLATFORMER® technology combining with Trave tray sealers gives SECURITY of supply and assured quality of tray.

Packaging materials can be harmonised precisely to ensure package security throughout its life cycle.

Over 45 years EXPERIENCE in tray sealing innovation and engineering excellence provide the design and functionality which are simple in concept but sublime in execution.

The construction delivers a robust tray forming system to achieve efficiency and reliability in production.

The PLATFORMER system is coupled exactly with the speed and technology of the Trave Tray Sealers giving the best in class PERFORMANCE and delivering the lowest packaging cost on the market.

FLEXIBILITY is the key in modern packaging systems, and this new leading-edge concept facilitates customers to better meet the challenges of changing retail and consumer demands by increasing the number of packaging technologies and formats with minimal cost while maximising the return on investment.

G. Mondini is one of the few companies which are able to realise its products starting from the customer's idea and following it through until delivery to the destination through a group of technicians, engineers and project managers, able to satisfy any kind of demand following just one logic: customer satisfaction.

Another strong point of G. Mondini is certainly the relationship of full co-operation and assistance which is always guaranteed to the customer. The same goes for the research and development phase, and for post-sales assistance, which is guaranteed worldwide by highly skilled staff.

Major food companies all over the world have chosen G. Mondini as a partner for all of these reasons.

In G. Mondini future there are new and exciting challenges and customers know they can rely on the enthusiasm and competence of a big company which puts total customer satisfaction at the centre of its philosophy.
